

Mary Peters

Mary Peters was the U.S. Secretary of Transportation from 2006 to 2009. She also served as administrator of the Federal Highway Administration from 2001 to 2005. Ms. Peters is a respected national expert on transportation policy and a forward thinker, advancing new policy directions for the funding and building of U.S. infrastructure. In her 25 years in transportation and public policy, she has chartered infrastructure innovation from both the public and private sectors. Her method to developing market-based solutions is changing the way the U.S. approaches its infrastructure requirements.

Glen Knight

Glen Knight is the President of Knight Associates, Inc., and he has over thirty years of expertise in project management in a variety of industries, including information technology, engineering and numerous government sectors. Since 1991, his company has been dedicated to helping organizations achieve a higher level of project management maturity through the development and evolution of their project management infrastructure. Mr. Knight has been published, featured and quoted in many journals and is a certified Project Management Professional, a registered education provider with the Project Management Institute and a member of the National Speakers Association.

Excellence in Transportation Awards Banquet

On the evening of April 26, 2011, the Idaho Transportation Department will recognize outstanding achievement in Transportation Planning, Design, Environmental Stewardship, Maintenance & Operations, Public Participation, and Construction. Project boards furnished by all applicants will be on display in the lobby. Entries are due March 24, 2011, and winners will be announced at the banquet. For entry details go to: www.itd.idaho.gov/excellence.award

